SAINT PAUL 'S VOICE

October/November 2009

While on vacation I read an article from the August/September '09 edition of "Perspectives", a periodical resource. I was taken by an article called, "The Burden of Empathy", written by Jim Hibma. It was based on a verse from Galatians 6, "Bear one another's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ." The following are excerpts from his article.

He talked about the excuses people give for not going to church. There are those who say they find God on the golf course on Sunday morning or that Sunday is the only day they can sleep in and a variety of other excuses. Mr. Hibma wonders if people do not attend church in an effort to avoid the burden of empathy.

He says in the article, "I am thinking that those who are not in church are cowards. Why do we do this? I haven't mentioned the pastoral prayer where the pastor prays for the whole world. We take a tour in the prayer of all the hot spots on earth, the Middle East, Africa, people in poverty across the globe, the pain of suffering of people that I don't know. The mental illness that abounds in folks. People in depression and despair. We prayed for other churches in this country and across earth. People who because of their sense of calling, are separated from loved ones. All who struggle were remembered. The point is that I could have watched a sunrise somewhere that morning. Or walked all morning in a park, played a round of golf. I could have avoided all of this by just sleeping in that day.

Call it an epiphany. Call it whatever you want. But it takes courage to open oneself up emotionally to the pain of others. It takes courage to consider what can be done, to remember and deal with the burdens that others bear in this world. I know that I saw lots of people that Sunday morning from the balcony, different ages, different abilities, different gifts, but the common element was that they were there. And it showed courage.

So I want to congratulate the churchgoers. I want to thank them for their concerns and for their prayers. Whatever is done about the problems in this world starts with empathy and concern that is eventually translated into action. To open oneself up to all these people, to begin to feel what they feel, even in a little way---Wow! That is courage! People who attend church don't have to do this, but they go willingly, to care for others, to bear their burdens. I think it is amazing that anyone is there at all Sunday morning.

They are doing all this because they want to fulfill the law of Christ."

Love in Christ,

Pastor Mel Stricklin

Putting Caring into Action

Neighbors are walking together to take a stand against hunger in our world. Each year some 2,000 communities across the U.S. join in locally-organized, interfaith CROP Hunger Walks that help support the work of Church World Service both around the world and here at home.

This year the Hampstead/Manchester area walk will be held on October 4th from 2:00pm-4:00pm at Cape Horn Park with registration beginning at 1:30pm. Live music, a moon bounce, free refreshments, and incentives will be offered.

Church World Service CROP Walks (Communities Responding to Overcome Poverty) share a quarter of what is raised with local communities' hunger fighting efforts such as food banks and community gardens. Last year the participants in the Manchester/Hampstead CROP Walk donated over $1,800.00 dollars to The North East Social Action Program Food Pantry for their neighbors in need of support.

On line registration and donations can be given at www.cropwalk.org. For more information about this joyous service celebration, please call Lynn Sheavly at St. Mark's Lutheran Church at 410-374-6944.

July 2009

Dear friends,

It is with mixed emotions that I announce to you my retirement as of October 31, 2009. The decision has not been easy for me to make for several reasons. One is that I feel that I have learned some of the skills needed for this calling and made the contacts that make a bishop most effective. In addition, I allowed my name to go forward in the balloting for a second term with every intention of completing it. However, as many of you are aware, my health has been a concern for the last few years. Initially I thought that my health issues would be finally and fully addressed once my foot had healed. This has not been the case, as I now face the need for knee replacement in both knees, with surgery scheduled for January 12 and 19, 2010.

The synod has been very patient and much in prayer during my past illnesses, for which I am most grateful. But after much discussion and prayer, I have come to the conclusion that the synod needs a bishop who does not have to devote so much time to self-care when there is so much synodical work to be done. It is on this basis, and this basis alone, that I have decided to retire.

From this point on, the Synod Council will determine the process to be followed during the transition to a new bishop. Having worked with this group for some time and knowing the strong leadership skills of Vice President Yolanda Tanner, I am confident that the council will act prayerfully, faithfully and decisively to guide the synod during this time. One possibility is that the council will appoint an interim bishop and call a special synod assembly early in 2010 to elect a bishop. Whatever the council decides, however, will be communicated with all members of the synod in as many ways as possible. I know you join me in offering prayers of gratitude that God has blessed us with these faithful leaders and prayers that God will continue to offer them guidance in the days ahead.

It has been a privilege to serve as your bishop, a calling that was as surprising to me as it was to many of you. Whatever I have accomplished reflects largely on the fine work of the assistants to the bishop and the synod staff. I can retire with confidence because I know how faithfully and competently they work. As my health permits, and as the new bishop and the Synod Council think appropriate, I hope to continue in retirement to try to bring into being the Lutheran Adolescent Recovery School and to help the "Sowing for the Harvest" campaign.

Again, I thank you for the privilege of serving as your bishop. God has sustained me in that calling, and for that I give thanks. Pray for me, and I will pray for you, in the days ahead.

Peace and joy,

H. Gerard Knoche
Bishop
