

Multiplied Believers

If there was one disciple preaching in a town, and he told two people, and each of them told two people, and so on, the believers in Christ would grow at an amazing rate! The first two levels have been done for you. If you say that each person tells two other people, how many believers would there be after the 6th level? If everybody in your class told two people, how many people would know?

